Contra Costa county will endeavor to have its Supervisors raise its share, but falling in that it was agreed that Contra Costa would also use the public subscription scheme. To that end $2,800 was raised on the ground, $1,500 from Alameda county. The $1,200 from Contra Costa was subscribed on condition that its Supervisors found it unable to do the work.

The following is Oakland's roll of honor: Edson F. Adams, $500; County Surveyor George Nusbaumer, $100; A. D. Pryal, $100; Supervisor Charles Roeth, $100; George L. The hills in this region were covered with ferns and with other evergreens add much to the charm of the trip. Looking back when nearly to the summit, one of the finest bits of landscape in all California greets the eye. Between two rugged mountains can be seen the city of Oakland, a bit of the bay and further the Golden bit of the bay and further the Golder Gate. At the summit the dividing line is reached and then commences the descent into Contra Costa county. At the foot of the grade the Buckley ranch is reached and about a quarter of a mile from there up the ravine is the old Kennedy tunnel.

AT THE TUNNEL'S END. The visitors arrived at the scene the barbecue about 11 o'clock, and, by moon, fully 200 people had assembled. After taking out the horses from the by, going out new Broadway and over the dam of the little Chabot lake, the road which was started by L. W. Kennedy twenty years ago could be reached. This road leads to the Alameda end of the tunnel.

In order to reach the old Kennedy tunnel a bend in the mountain must be gone over and Supervisor Roeth suggested that the tunnel be made in this bend, thereby saving a quarter of a mile. County Surveyor George Nusbaumer, however, thought this project not feasible.

After viewing the route and discussing the merits of the tunnel, the party returned to the ravine, where Ben Martinez, the chef, has prepared a feast of roast beef, bread and steaming coffee. The meal was heartily enjoyed by all after the fatiguing climb, and then, after satisfying the inner man, speech making was in order. man, speech making was in order. ORATORY BEGINS.

The meeting was called to order by Supervisor Hemme and J. M. Stow of Contra Costa was elected chairman of the meeting and Craigie Sharp of Oakland was made secretary. Mr. Stow who was late at the feast, moved that Mr. Hemme, be made vice-chairman and that he act as chairman until the chair finished his dinner. Mr. Stow's motion was carried and G. W. Arper was called upon as the first speaker. Mr. Arper said that he thought every man present realized the importance of getting the road through. In the of getting the road through. In the olden time it was said that every road led to Rome, the then center of commerce and surrounding Rome was the grandest system of highways the world had ever seen. That system of highways, he said, had been an impotent factor in making Rome the powerful city that she was. The roads leading into a city, said Mr. Arper could be Pursuant to an invitation from the people of Contra Costa county, members of the Merchants' Exchange and other progressive Oakland people, attended a barbecue last Saturday in a ravine just below the Contra Costa county Michael and Contra Costa county. Contra Costa county members of the merchants' Exchange would be considered a good barometer of the contra Costa county progressiveness and public split; bad roads a lack of embers of the proposed tunnel which is to connect Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

Two things were decided upon—that the Supervisors of 'Alameda county is assessed for 165,000,000 and 188,000,000 and 188,000,000 tustide of city property. been a danger to life and limb. It was only last summer that a couple of people were injured on the old Thorn hill road. Lately a member of the Merchants Exchange was so badly injured that his injuries may prove permanent. Such has been the condition of things from the founding of the counties down to the present time. It is a mere span that divides us, a bagatelle in cost. Here we have a proposition that will give a market for the products of fertile vales and valleys. The Contra Costa people instead of having to take products fifty miles to a market would by putting this road through have but twelve miles to go to find a market, and Cakland would be benefited by the trade. And this would all fited by the trade. And this would all come by a mere expenditure of a few triffing dollars.

Their present looks lead me to believe that they are doing a great deal of deep thinking. A few miners will go to work and dig a tunnel no larger than the one we proposed to die. They than the one we proposed to dig. They dig with a bare prospect of striking gold. There is no question about our tunnel. It is a dead sure shot. Men who have made this State what it is will go to work with a drill and dig two will go to work with a drill and dig two inches a day and keep it up till a larger hole than our proposed tunnel is made, in the hope of striking gold. Here is gold in sight, and here are two great counties full of rich resources standing appalled before the boring of a small hole through a little ridge."

ANNEXATION TRUTHS.

Scoretary Naismith Replies to Erronsous Statements

To the Editor of the Tribune: The advocates of annexation, are steadily pushing on their good work. Last Tuesday, an interesting meeting was held ut Temescal. Tomorrow evening a meeting will be held at the Adeline Sanitary District, and on Friday evening a meeting will be held in the Pledmont school house at Pledmont.

During the past week, unknown par-ties have issued an anti-annexation cir-cular in the Piedmont District. This circular has been carefully considered, and it seems impossible to realize that any one could gather together so many erroneous ideas in such a small space.

The first misstatement, is that once annexed, "no power can ever sever the bond." Had the writer looked for the truth he would have found it in the smendments passed at the session of '89 where it distinctly provides for the segregation of a part of an incorporat-statement, is that "the present High School is too small and the city wants the larger acreage to help build a new one." This is so far from the truth, that it is needless to answer it.

Another false statement is one refer-ring to some ordinance that provides that only two cows can be kept on one block, We can only refer to the dair for many years on Adams' Point. All inside the city limits; also at the head of Lake Merritt on the east.

The annexed district is not effected by the cow ordinance! Then comes a reference to the dreadful incursion of the poundman. A large number of those who favor annexation as well as many who are opposed to it, want this official very much, just for the purpose of stopping several of the antis from pasturing their horses on their neighbors lawns, as they are doing at the present time.

Another wild statement is that Oak-districts mainly, said he.

Mr. Sharp asked if the money could not be taken from the funds for several years, suggesting that it might be borrowed.

Mr. Talcott answered that each district must be square with the world the lst of Oakland, but by the entire county.

Present time:

Another wild statement is that Oakland wants a "New Court House." We ent in court, neither was she represent realize that the present Court House is not a very strong or safe building, but mounced that no further contest would of Oakland, but by the entire county. Costa county, was the next speaker. He ing of a new Court House either way, evoked applause by saying that he had been in favor of the road for years, and that he believed in building the tunnel if boulevard. What work has been done vard, is not being done by issuing bonds Then L. W. Kennedy, who started the funds. While only this very week, ref

Then L. W. Kennedy, who started the road over twenty years ago, had something to say. Said he:

"I am glad to meet you here today, for when the fight is on the old hair turns back to its natural color and the eye gets back its lustre. Twenty years ago I started this road. Contra Costa then had a population of 20,000.

"It seems to me that all the talk today has not been how to do this work, but how it can't be done."

The L. W. Kennedy, who started the renew as made in the daily papers to the building of a boulevard on the Adams' property by the owners themselves. Perhaps the antis dont want even this done.

Another weak point is made on the Cemetery Creek, and the probable cost of abating it by the putting in of a storm sewer. Wilful intention, statements are made that 350 acres outside would have to bear a large proportion of the expense of building the sewer neglecting to refer to the creek on the west side of Broadway, draining over 900 acres, and running into Cemetery Creek, at the intersection of Broadway and Pledmont avenues.

Many other statements equally as wild a procedure to the control of th wild, are made but the above is enough to condemn the entire article.
